

Beacon Shaw, Tatsfield

This former house of a prominent MP is steeped in history and was the location of espionage and political scandal back in the 1960's, it also formed barracks for RAF officers during the time when Biggin Hill played an important role in the air defences in World War II.

The property is now sub-divided into two wings and the current owner has embarked on the addition of this fantastic extension which Craymanor Limited worked closely with the Architect to create an extension that blended in and was sympathetic to the existing house.

You can see that this was achieved by using reclaimed materials of matching colour and texture and by paying particular attention to detail on the construction techniques and external finishes.

All in all Craymanor Limited have provided this fantastic addition to this family home creating an additional lounge at ground floor level together with an open plan staircase leading up to the first floor where an additional bedroom, master bathroom and en-suite were created and then continuing the staircase into the loft space complete with an external dormer to facilitate head room and enabling the existing loft bedroom to be accessed with greater ease, adding significant value to this property.
